Carl-Gustav Jung's "Active Imagination" and Georges Romy's "Free Wakeful Dreaming" are brought together in a new conceptual framework facilitating learning and practice.

Michel Depeyrot, a Stanford PhD, has enriched these efficient techniques of psychotherapy with both Applied Kinesiology and Chinese Alchemy, and after years of practice he has launched the "Therapy by the Imaginary in Action" as TIA in China. It is now time to bring the subject to the UK for progressing beyond Freud's, Jung's and Romy's approaches to psychosomatic healing.

The Imaginary can perform a series of harmonization of opposites, which upgrades Defence Mechanisms to maturity for any psychotic, immature or simply neurotic individual. With the help of a sound interpretation, everyone can proceed through their own healing.

- Individual sessions for experiencing the imaginary in action

- Efficient Template for interpretation of dream scenarios, up to a therapeutic orientation
- Dreams and Fantasies for healing per major theories (Freud, Jung, Desoille)
- Defence Mechanisms and the harmonization of opposites
- Basic concepts needed explaining the symbols from the Imaginary
- Structural analysis of the imaginary in comparison with grammars of spoken languages
- Case-studies of the imaginary in action
